

Ad Standards' Ad Dispute Adjudication Panel

Register of Lawyers Application Form

BACKGROUND

Ad Standards administers an informal dispute resolution process to resolve competitive disputes. The objective is to provide a mechanism to resolve advertising disputes between advertisers that might otherwise lead to litigation. The system is designed to obviate the need for expensive and time-consuming court actions.

A key component of the process is the Ad Dispute Adjudication Panel (Ad Dispute Panel). This three-person Ad Dispute Panel is chaired by a lawyer experienced in the area of advertising and marketing law in Canada, who has been selected from a Register of qualified lawyers maintained by Ad Standards. The other two members of the Ad Dispute Panel are senior industry volunteers drawn from the advertiser, communication agency, or media sectors, and may include in-house counsel. Ad Standards ensures that members of the Panel have no conflicts with the Complainant Advertiser or the Defendant advertiser.

The Ad Dispute Panel meets, in the absence of the two parties, to review the complaint, the advertising, and any submissions/replies and, after applying the provisions of the Canadian Code of Advertising Standards arrives at a decision. Decisions are reached by a simple majority. The chair is responsible for writing the decision, which must be approved by the other panelists.

In recognition of the effort required, the chair will be entitled to a writing fee of $3500. The other panelists volunteer their time to support the self-regulatory process.

INCLUSION ON REGISTER OF LAWYERS

Any legal practitioner who has been accepted by Ad Standards is included in the Register of Lawyers and has the opportunity of being selected as chair of an Ad Dispute Panel.
